DETAILED ACTION

Receipt is acknowledged of the request for continued examination filed 10/30/2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 2-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The claims contain limitations which do not appear to have support in the original description. These are a) a particle size of less than 1 micron and b) absence of polyoxypropylene- polyoxyethylene block polymer. While support may be found in the original claims, then specification needs amendment to include these limitations.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-6, 8-12, 19-21, 62, 64 and 67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hara et al.

Hara et al disclose the combination of cholesterol, cholesteryl oleate (non-ionic surfactants), L alpha-lysophosphatidylcholine (cationic surfactant) and olive oil (see page 14547, Materials and Methods, Materials). Hara et al therefore discloses the formation of microdroplets through the combination of a metabolizable oil and an emulsifying agent. The particle of Hara also contains several other surfactants. A Particle size is set out as about 100 nm (see abstract). Combined with the formed microdroplet is a cytomegalovirus derived plasmid (see page 14547, Materials and Methods, Plasmid). The instant microemulsion is clearly anticipated by Hara et al.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 10/30/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

While applicant is correct in stating that the cholesteryl oleate is not an emulsion stabilizer, it is a surfactant. However, it must be pointed out that the claims set out an "emulsifying agent", not an emulsion stabilizer. As such, compounds set out by Hara et al qualify as the generic detergents of the claims. The rejection is therefore maintained.

Claims 14-18, 22-33, 51-61, 63, 65 and 66 are objected to as dependent upon a rejected base claim.
